Many Candidates for a Few Offices on the 2008 Ballot

by James Giese

The primary source for information in this article has been the

President -Vice President

Six candidates are listed on the Maryland ballot for the office of President of the United States in the November 4 election. Most voters will find the names of three of the candidates to be familiar - Democratic nominee Barack Obama, Republican nominee John McCain and independent candidate and consumer advocate Ralph Nader.

Named with each candidate is a running mate for the office of vice-president. Voters have one vote to cast for the selected presidential candidate and his vicepresidential running mate; i.e., you can't choose one without the other. The other three candidates are: Cynthia McKinney, Green Party; Bob Barr, Libertarian; and Chuck Baldwin, Constitution.

While lawyers predominate in the list of candidates, quite a variety of qualifications are offered. One is a Hip-Hop activist. Two are US Senators, one a long-time maverick and the other a freshman. One is a member of Congress; another, a past member. Two candidates have been community organizers, another a consumer advocate.

One is a self-professed "hockey-mom" governor. One is a minister. Two are talk show hosts. One serves on the NRA board of directors. Two have served in Vietnam, one becoming a prisoner of war; two others are parents of sons in Iraq.

Obama – Biden

If elected, Barack Obama will be the first bi-racial president of this country. His father was a native Kenyan, his mother a Kansan. Her parents moved to Hawaii and she met her husband at the University of Hawaii. Her husband eventually returned to Kenya. Obama, born in August, 1961, was raised by his mother in Hawaii, and for a time, in Indonesia with the aid of his grandparents. Later he moved to New York, where he earned a degree from Columbia University in 1983.

In 1985 Obama moved to Chicago, where he became a community organizer with a churchbased group seeking to improve living conditions in poor neighborhoods. Deciding he could do more to aid such people as a lawyer or in politics, he earned a law degree from Harvard University in 1991. At Harvard he became the first African-American to become president of the Harvard Law Review.

Obama returned to Chicago to practice as a civil rights lawyer and teach constitutional law. After being elected to the Illinois State Senate, he ran in 2004 for the United States Senate from Illinois and was elected.

Obama, his wife Michelle and two daughters Malia, 10, and Sasha, 7, live on the South Side of Chicago.

Obama's running mate is Joe Biden, a US Senator from Delaware. Biden, 65, was born in Scranton, Penna., the oldest of four children. When he was 11, his family moved to Claymont, Del. He graduated from the University of Delaware in 1965 and from the law school at Syracuse University in 1968. After school he set up a law practice in Wilmington.

In 1970 at age 27, he ran for the New Castle County Council and was elected in a normally Republican district. Just two years later he ran an improbable campaign against two-term Republican US Senator J. Caleb Boggs with little help from the state establishment and with his sister serving as campaign manager. He won by 162 votes.

Before he could take office, his wife, Neilia, and one-yearold daughter, Naomi, were killed in an automobile accident and his two young sons, Beau and Hunter, were seriously injured. He took his oath of office in the hospital at his sons' side. Biden chose to continue living in Wilmington and has commuted on a daily basis to Washington to serve in the Senate.

In 1977 Biden married Jill Jacobs, with whom he has had one daughter, Ashley. Mrs. Biden is currently a professor at Delaware Technical Community College. His eldest son, Beau, is Delaware's Attorney General and is currently on active duty with the National Guard in Iraq.

McCain – Palin

John McCain, 72, is the son and grandson of distinguished Navy admirals. If elected, he will be the oldest person elected to the office of US President. He was born in Coco Salo Naval Air Station in the Panama Canal Zone, the second of three children. He spent his childhood moving between Naval bases in the United States and abroad. He entered and graduated from the US Naval Academy in Annapolis in 1958 and from flight school

McCain volunteered for combat duty during the Vietnam war and served on the USS Forrestal. There, he barely escaped death when a missile was accidentally fired and struck his on-board aircraft, killing 134. On his 23rd air mission on October 26, 1977,

Council Hears School Resource Officers, Meets New City Staff

by Thomas X. White

The October 13 regular meeting of the Greenbelt City Council benefited from a light agenda allowing ample time for Master Police Officer (MPO) John Rogers and Corporal Marty Parker to provide a comprehensive report on the School Resource Officers' activities for the 2007-2008 school year. In addition, council presented proclamations to representatives of six Greenbelt cooperative organizations in honor of the Cooperative Month of October. City staff also introduced four new colleagues to council.

Of the four items on the business agenda, discussion of the State of Maryland Draft Consolidated Transportation Program for Fiscal Years 2009-2014 garnered most of the discussion time.

School Resource Report

MPO Rogers and Cpl. Parker recounted a wide range of activities within the program of the School Resource Officer (SRO) to influence the behavior of students attending Eleanor Roosevelt High School (ERHS), Greenbelt Middle School (GMS), Springhill Lake Elementary and Greenbelt Elementary. Although Rogers spends most of his time at ERHS and Parker at GMS, the two officers act in concert in programs and activities at all the Greenbelt schools

The SRO program here was one of the first in the country when it was established over a decade ago. Until recently it was funded entirely by Greenbelt taxpayers. Now that the program has been adopted around the country and in most Prince George's high schools, Greenbelt has been receiving county funding for its program.

The annual report lists statistics for activities, incidents and calls for service at the four schools and provides a three-year comparison in all of reported areas. For the most part, statistics for the Greenbelt schools reflect a stable situation in terms of incidents, citations and complaints.

The real story from the Rogers and Parker report to council, however, was contained in the broad range of activities the two officers use to build trust and respect for law enforcement among the students and to provide educational experiences for students in dealing with everyday stressful events at or away from school. The SROs work cooperatively with school administrations while conducting their programs and, especially at ERHS, have become part of the See COUNCIL, page 12 school curriculum.

The list of activities include day-to-day student contacts, parent conferences, official school activities, the D.A.R.E. and G.R.E.A.T. programs at the elementary and middle school level, School Safety Patrol, S.A.D.D. programs, Roger's Criminal Justice class at ERHS, a summer Juvenile Police Academy, mock-auto crash scenes at ERHS and sessions on emergency response and internet safety.

In addition to these programs, the SROs also provide security at sporting and other school events such as Grad Nite for ERHS, truancy patrols, patrols on either side of the Spellman Overpass and foot and bicycle patrols in school neighborhoods.

In response to questions from council on the experience with truants, Rogers and Parker noted that truancy was not a significant problem at Greenbelt schools. For the year there were 24 reports of truancy at EHRS and none at GMS and the elementary schools. The officers said that most truants encountered at Greenbelt locations were from other schools in Prince George's County. Parker also told council that the switch to uniforms

Bond Issues and Questions Will Be on the Nov. 4 Ballot

by Ann Landry Lombardi

Voting on November 4, 2008, includes more than presidential candidates and the slots issue. A state constitutional amendment would enable the state to permit early voting if approved. Two proposed Prince George's County Charter amendments would approve a tax increase for schools (Question F) and extend the number of days to publish county legislation (Question G). Other county ballot questions relate to bond issues

Slots

Ballot Question 2, entitled "Video Lottery Terminals (Slot Machines) to Fund Education," is an amendment to the Maryland constitution which authorizes the state to grant five lottery licenses in the counties of Anne Arundel, Cecil, Worcester and Alleghany plus Baltimore City and limits the number of machines to 15,000. Any expansion or relocation must be approved by voters.

The slots revenue, set by Maryland General Assembly, is advocated as needed for school facilities and programs and to avoid raising income tax. Slot machines were originally promoted to cure the state budget deficit of $1.7 billion. However, any new revenues would not be realized until 2010.

A vote for slots permits the gaming industry to operate in five counties. The revenue, estimated at $600 million, would be distributed according to a formula set by the General Assembly. Education would receive 48.5 percent of the profits to fund the Thornton Plan, a two-year prospective plan to renew and expand education The slots operators would receive 33 percent. Other disbursements include 7 percent for racing purses, 2.5 percent to pay for track renovations by track owners, 5 percent to local communities near the tracks, 1.5 percent to small, minority and women-owned businesses and 2 percent to the lottery agency that runs advertising encouraging people to play.

Question 1

Early voting, proposed as a Maryland constitutional amendment (Question 1), would allow voters to vote outside their election districts up to two weeks before Election Day. It authorizes the General Assembly to enact extended use of the absentee ballot beyond the definition "absent or unable at time of election." A citizen would vote at specified locations on voting machines, not Authorizes the State to issue up to five video lottery licenses for the primary purpose of raising revenue for education of children in public schools, prekindergarten through grade 12, public school construction and improvements, and construction of capital projects at community colleges and higher education institutions. No more than a total number of 15,000 video lottery terminals may be authorized in the State, and only one license may be issued for each specified location in Anne Arundel, Cecil, Worchester, and Allegany Counties, and Baltimore City. Any additional forms or expansion of commercial gaming in Maryland is prohibited, unless approved by a voter referendum.

On November 4 Greenbelt voters will be asked to vote for or against a referendum to amend the state constitution to legalize slot machines in Maryland. We do not believe the state should stake its financial future on yet another expansion of gambling.

Gaming is not a reliable source of income, especially in a period of significant economic downturn. Gambling has the potential for severe negative social consequences for individuals, families and communities. Additional social service and welfare costs can be expected to support the victims of addictive gamblers.

A successful state referendum would override any valid opposition from a community in which the gaming facility is listed.

While proponents argue that the referendum does not constitute a "slippery slope," a victory for slots in 2008 will visit upon Maryland and its neighboring states a mad competition to gain a greater share of the limited revenue available. With the influx of gaming venues in numerous states, gaming revenue is no longer the lucrative source to governments it once was.

We are also concerned that, as once happened with firehouse casino nights and slots once allowed in Southern Maryland, slot machines will increase crime and corruption.

Although the wording of the ballot question leads one to believe that the primary purpose of legalizing slots is to support education, less than half (48.5 percent) of the estimated projected revenues from slots would go into an Education Trust Fund. Nearly as much (42 percent) would go to the operators of the five authorized gaming facilities and to the racetrack industry including many wealthy non-state horse breeders and owners. The remaining 9 percent would go to local infrastructure grants, loans to small businesses and administrative costs. Since slots proponents see the measure as a way out of a budget shortfall, it is almost certain that other revenues now allocated to education will be reprogrammed to other uses, with no assurance that educational funding will increase.

We urge a no vote on Question 2.

City Says Stop to ICC

The following is a letter that was sent to the Secretary of the Maryland Department of Transportation on October 10, 2008, by Mayor Judith Davis at the request of the Greenbelt City Council:

Mr. John Porcari, Secretary Maryland Department of Transportation 7201 Corporate Center Hanover, MD 21076

Dear Secretary Porcari:

The City Council of Greenbelt wants to add its voice to those calling for a halt to the funding of the Inter-County Connector (ICC) due to the project cost overruns, economic downturn and impact on other transportation projects.

From its very beginning, the ICC has been a most expensive project that has been shown to be of limited benefit in addressing regional traffic congestion. Rather than reducing or delaying the funding for the ICC, the decision was made to cut or defer funds to a number of other projects that would have positive impacts on the transportation situation. Primary among these are long overdue improvements to Route 1 in College Park, proceeding on the Purple Line, improvements at the Branch Avenue Metro Station and construction of interchange ramps at the Greenbelt Metro Station that would serve a Smart Growth transit oriented development.

Further, funding was untouched for two projects which could have severe environmental impacts: a proposed connector road from the Capital Beltway to the University of Maryland and the extension/expansion of Kenilworth Avenue (MD 201). These are projects for which the funding should have been cut.

Understanding the tough fiscal times being faced by the State of Maryland, the Greenbelt City Council urges you to reconsider the decision to continue the funding of the ICC. The limited benefit it may provide is far outweighed by the environmental cost and the cost to other transit projects that provide greater benefits.

Sincerely,

Judith F. Davis Mayor

Clarification

In the article about the New Deal Café, one of Greenbelt's Co-ops featured during Co-op Month, the correct description of the management was omitted. The article should have stated that the New Deal board manages the cooperative and oversees the food service operations run by Chef Karim.

Community Services Website Expands

The Maryland Community Services Locator is an interactive online directory developed to help community members and professionals locate community services. It allows users to get organizational contact information and other details, map resources by location and get instant directions to programs. In July 2008 the Center for Substance Abuse Research (CESAR) began a statewide expansion of resources on the Maryland Community Services Locator website (www.mdcsl.org).

Since its launch, the website has expanded to include more than 3,600 services and programs. The listed resources are periodically verified for accuracy by University of Maryland staff. In addition to the substance abuse and short-term housing resources included when it first launched, it now includes listings for Job Readiness/Adult Education Services, Health/Mental Health Services, Emergency Food Assistance, Family Assistance, Victim Services and many others.

For more information contact CESAR by email at mdcsl@cesar. umd.edu, phone 301-405-9796 or visit the website. The MDCSL is funded by the governor's Office of Crime Control and Prevention.

Atom Bomb Exhibit Opens November 1

On Saturday, November 1, sponsored by the Prince George's County Peace and Justice Coalition, the Hiroshima-Nagasaki Atomic Bomb Photo Poster Exhibition in the USA will come to Greenbelt. Its 30 posters show and recount the effects of those bombings. One of the survivors is coming to tell the story first-hand.

The exhibit will be open at the Community Center from 3:30 to 9 p.m. with a program at 4 p.m.

Hiroshima and Nagasaki were the first cities to experience the horror of nuclear weapons. Both were devastated in an instant and tens of thousands of lives were lost. Many of those who managed to survive still suffer today from disorders attributable to Abomb radiation. The survivors' long-held wish is to let no one else ever suffer as they did; the two cities have for decades appealed for a world of genuine peace, free from nuclear weapons. One form this appeal has taken is the Hiroshima-Nagasaki Atomic Bomb Exhibition; the posters present the facts of the atomic bombings and call for peace.

At 4 p.m. there will be an introduction by John Steinbach from the Hiroshima/Nagasaki Committee for the Washington, D.C., metro area, followed by a talk by Steve Leeper, chair of the Hiroshima Peace Culture Foundation and testimony by Sigeko Sasamori, an A-bomb survivor. Discussion will follow about continuing implications for world security.

The exhibit was produced by the Hiroshima Peace Memorial Museum.

Obituaries

Dena Sara Kohn

On Monday, October 6, 2008, Dena Sara Kohn died peacefully in her sleep after many years of personal struggles and medical complications. She was the beloved daughter of longtime residents Niki and Gary Kohn and dear sister of Ari Benjamin Kohn. Dena had just turned 23-years-old on September 23.

She attended Glenarden Woods Elementary School, Kenmoor Middle School and Eleanor Roosevelt High School.

She also attended Montgomery and Anne Arundel Community Colleges, Indiana University, George Washington University and Marymont Manhattan College. In addition, Dena completed part of a Teaching English as a Second Language program.

Dena was an active member of Mishkan Torah congregation, president of her B'nai Brith Youth organization chapter, elected to the regional board of BBYO of Greater Washington and was selected to attend a BBYO International Leadership Training Institute in Pennsylvania.

Dena participated in many activities and had many interests in her short life. Girl Scouts, water babies and swim lessons at the Greenbelt pool, Tee ball and Creative Kids camp, dance and yoga. She competed with several Odyssey of the Mind teams, with two teams making it to the state level, where Dena earned an Individual Spirit award.

She was an active member of City at Peace and took drama classes through The Theatre Lab in Washington, D.C., where she played the 'little girl' in the musical Ragtime.

Various jobs included camp counselor for special needs children, working at Busboys and Poets restaurant, Barnes & Noble Starbucks, Yami Yami Bubble Tea and Dylan's Candy Bar in NYC.

In 2006, Dena raised $4,000 in support of the Whitman-Walker Clinic to train with the National AIDS Marathon program. One of the most special events in her life was the trip to Hawaii to run in this race.

She loved her travels to South Africa and Israel, two of her favorite places.

Dena was passionate about politics. She interned at the Democratic Leadership Council, volunteered at the 2000 Democratic National Convention in Los Angeles and helped Maryland Delegate Benjamin Barnes win his seat in the Maryland General Assembly.

Dena was a spirited young woman who lived a life of great compassion and truly believed every person can make a difference in the world. It is hoped that her life will be an inspiration to many.

Fall Fest: Autumn's in the Air

by Megan Gustafson

The Fall Fest at Schrom Hills Park last Saturday had the feel of a neighborhood barbeque

 the grill was going, children were playing, people were scattered throughout the park engaging in activities and conversation.

A variety of savory foods and sugary treats were for sale, tempting festival goers near the entrance to the park. Further back, children picked out pumpkins from a temporary pumpkin patch while others waited in line for hayrides. Nearby, another pumpkin was set out on a table, with a sign inviting people to guess its weight. Booths representing various community organizations were set up along a sidewalk, ready to provide information to anyone who dropped by.

Autumn decorations – including a scarecrow perched atop a tractor – dotted the landscape, providing a festive feel.

On a nearby playing field kids raced against each other in gunny sacks or played what appeared to be some kind of soccer game. Other youngsters enjoyed jumping and bouncing inside inflated moonwalks, one of which was in the shape of Spongebob Squarepants.

Girl Scout Troop 4816 was at Fall Fest selling beverages and popcorn to "raise money for troop events and provide a service to the community," said Monica Mische, the troop leader.

Mische, mother of twins involved in the troop, which she said was made up of 16 girls between the ages of 10 and 12, appeared to be having a good time at the festival.

"It's a beautiful day. I'm happy to be here, I look forward to it every year," she said.

Three members of the Springhill Lake Elementary PTA also enjoyed Fall Fest as they sat together around a picnic table munching on various festival goodies. Maria King of Greenbelt, vice president of the PTA at the school and a mother of three, said it was her first time attending the Fall Fest. She called the event "excellent fun."

PTA secretary Vavi Hawes, the mother of a third-grader, said she often volunteers at Springhill Lake Elementary.

Trina Coore is the PTA treasurer and a mother of three children, one of whom is a student at the elementary school. A resident of Greenbelt, she expressed an appreciation for Schrom Hills Park. "I love this park. This is where I come and walk," she said.

He was held in captivity for five and one-half years. After nine months of painful rehabilitation he returned to active duty but it became clear that the permanent injuries he had sustained would hamper his career.

McCain was elected to Congress in 1982 and re-elected in 1984. In 1986 he successfully ran for retiring Senator Barry Goldwater's seat in the U.S. Senate. There he became noted as a maverick willing to make alliances with members from the Democratic party.

This is McCain's second try for the presidency, having lost out to George Bush for the Republican nomination in 2000.

McCain has seven children and four grandchildren.

McCain's running mate, Sarah Heath Palin, became a resident of Alaska as a child in 1964. She graduated from Wasilla, Alaska, High School in 1982 and obtained a BS degree in communications-journalism from the University of Idaho in 1987.

Palin was first elected to the Wasilla City Council, where she served two terms, followed by two more terms as the city's mayor. Libertarian candidate Bob Barr is a former member of Congress from the 7th District of Georgia serving from 1995 to 2003. Before that he was US Attorney for the Northern District of Georgia and president of the Southeastern Legal Foundation. He was an offical with the CIA from 1971 to 1978

Root has also authored six books and appeared on many radio shows.

Married, he and his wife have home schooled all of their four children.

Nader-Gonzalez

For the third time, Ralph Nader is seeking to become president, this time as an independent. Best known as a consumer advocate, Nader, 74, was born in Winsted, Conn., of Lebanese immigrants. He received an AB degree from Princeton University in 1955 and an LLB from Harvard University in 1958. He began practicing law in 1959 and lectured on history and government from 1961 to 1963 at the University of Hartford.

He began his career as a public advocate at the age of 31. His first book was Unsafe at Any Speed, which became a best seller after the CEO of General Motors testified that he had hired a private detective to investigate Nader.

In 1969 Nader helped found the Center for Study of Responsive Law. Staffed mostly by college, graduate and law students, they became known as "Nader's Raiders." Nader's efforts have helped achieved passage of several regulatory and safety acts by the US Congress.

Nader's running mate is Matt Gonzalez, who was born in McAllen, Tex., in 1965. He received a BA degree from Columbia University in 1987 and a JD from Stanford Law School in 1990. He was a deputy public defender from 1991 to 2000 in San Francisco.

Elected to the San Francisco Board of Supervisors in 2000, he became its president in 2003. That year he unsuccessfully ran for San Francisco mayor as a Green Party candidate, losing by a few percent. He is best known for having led the effort to implement Run-off Voting (Rank Choice Voting) in San Francisco. Currently Gonzalez is practicing law in San Francisco focused mostly on defending civil rights.

Registered Voters Here Are Predominantly Dems

by Mary Moien

Greenbelt remains a heavily Democratic town with 71 percent registering as Democrats, 11 percent as Republicans and 18 percent as other parties or unaffiliated. These data are based on 11,113 Greenbelters being registered at the close of registration on October 14 (see table above). This figure includes a 2 percent increase in the number of registered voters compared to the last presidential election in 2004. Based on data from the 2000 Census approximately two-thirds of the city's adults 18 years and older are registered to vote.

Greenbelt has continued to lean more to the Democratic side. In the 2000 election there were 4 Democrats for every Republican, in 2004 the ratio was 5 to 1 and now in 2008 there are 6 registered Democrats for every registered Republican. There are almost as many unaffiliated registered voters (1,141) as Republicans (1,224). Figures over the years show that the county as a whole has been voting in larger percentages for the Democratic party.

Within Greenbelt there is some variation by party. Center City has a smaller percentage registered as Democrats – 64 percent at Greenbelt Elementary and 69 percent at Greenbelt Community Center. East and West Greenbelt has a somewhat higher percentage of Democrats – 74 percent at the new Turning Point Charter School polling place, 75 percent at Eleanor Roosevelt High School and 77 percent at Springhill Lake Elementary. Springhill Lake, however, has traditionally had a very low turnout for elections.

The smaller parties are lightly represented in the city; there are 77 registered for the Green party, 25 for the Libertarian party and 8 for the Independent party. Slightly over 700 people registered for parties that are grouped together as "Others."

With 71 percent registering as Democrats, Greenbelt is "less" Democratic than Prince George's County which has 77 percent registered as Democrats. However, the city is significantly more Democratic than the state with only 56 percent of the people statewide registering as Democratic.

The fact that the percent of registered voters has risen only slightly does not mean that there has been little registration activity in the city. The 2 percent increase is a net increase. Although statistics are available only for the county, there has been signification registration activity. For example, there was much movement in and out of the county that is reflected in changed voter registrations. In September the county registered almost 3,400 people. However, at the same time almost 2,500 sent in notifications that they had moved out of the county. And these figures do not include residential moves within the county. August figures show that 504 deceased persons were removed from the voter registration roles.

US Congress

Three candidates are on the ballot for Representative in Congress for District 5. Greenbelt and other parts of Prince George's and Anne Arundel counties as well as Calvert, Charles and St. Mary's counties are within this district. The candidates are Steny H. Hoyer, Democratic incumbent; Collins Bailey, Republican and Darlene H. Nicholas, Libertarian.

Hoyer

Hoyer is a native of Prince George's, graduating from Suitland High School. He obtained a bachelor's degree in 1963 from the University of Maryland and a law degree from Georgetown in 1966. That same year, at the age of 27, he was first elected to the Maryland Senate, where he served until 1978. In 1975 the Maryland Senate elected him as its president, the youngest ever to serve in that position.

For three years he served on the Maryland State Board of Education until his election to Congress in 1981. He has held that office continuously since, even though the boundaries of the Fifth District have changed considerably in that time. Now a resident of Mechanicsville, Hoyer is completing his 14th term. Since 2007 he holds the distinction of being the longest serving Maryland Congressman in history.

Hoyer was elected in 2006 as the House Majority Leader, the second highest position in the US Congress. In so doing, he has become the highest ranking member of Congress from Maryland in history.

He and his late wife Judith Pickett Hoyer have three adult children and three grandchildren.

Bailey

Bailey, a resident of Waldorf, is a graduate of LaPlata High School. He is 54 years old and is self-employed as a lumber broker. He is serving his fourth four-year term on the Charles County Board of Education. He is a member of Gideons International, Grace Brethren Church, Charles County Christian Businessman's Association and is a group leader of Boys Village ministries.

Married for 33 years, the Baileys have four children.

Nicholas

Darlene Hazelton Nicholas was born in Hartford, Conn., and raised in West Paris, Maine. She has earned degrees in chemistry and technical writing and holds an MBA degree from Nova Southeastern University. She is a principal project management analyst for General Dynamics.

After reading Atlas Shrugged by Ayn Rand at the behest of her husband, she became a cofounder of the American Libertarian Society and has been a Libertarian Party member since the 1990s. She fought against eminent domain in the landmark Kelo v. City of New London case that the Supreme Court upheld in 2003. Her first unsuccessful campaign for office was in 1998 in New London, Conn., as a candidate for State Representative. She later unsuccessfully ran for Connecticut Secretary of State garnering 13,000 votes.

Nicholas and her husband Allen have been married for 31 years. They moved to Beltsville three years ago. They have two adult sons.

Circuit Court Judges

Five candidates are seeking five positions as Judges of the Circuit Court for Judicial Circuit 7. Unless an unexpected writein effort occurs, they will all be elected. They are Andre Michael Chapdelaine, Larnzell Martin, Jr., Crystal Dixon Mittelstaedt, Albert W. Northrup and Nichol Ellias Rattal Chapdelaine, 67, currently a circuit court judge, holds an LLB degree from Georgetown University. He has 40 years experience as a lawyer, law master and judge.

Martin, 58, is a resident of Bowie. He holds a JD degree from Georgetown University. First appointed to the Circuit Court in 1990, he was first elected in 1992.

Mittelstaedt, 50, is a resident of Upper Marlboro. A graduate of the University of Maryland, she has a JD degree from the Antioch School of Law.

Northrup, 60, has both BA and JD degrees from the University of Maryland. With 33 years of law experience and 22 years of judicial experience, he was first elected as Judge of the Orphans Court in 1986.

Rattal, 47, a resident of Laurel, also holds BA and JD degrees from the University of Maryland. With 20 years of experience in the public defenders office, he has served on the Board of Directors and as secretary of the Prince George's County Bar Association and as a mock trial coach at Elizabeth Seton High School.

Court of Special Appeals

Two ballot questions deal with whether or not to continue in office two sitting judges of the Court of Special Appeals. They are Deborah Eyler and Robert A. Zarnoch. There has been no significant campaign effort to oppose their continuance.

Deborah Sweet Eyler, 56, was born in New York City, attended high school in Cleveland Heights, Ohio, and obtained a BA at New York University and a JD from the University of Maryland. A resident of Baltimore County, she was a partner in the law firm Whiteford, Taylor and Preston. She has been an at-large judge on the Court of Special Appeals since June 1997.

Zarnoch, 63, was born in Baltimore, obtained a BA from Loyola College in Maryland, an M A from American University and a JD from Georgetown University. In 1977 he joined the Maryland Attorney General's office and from 1979 to 2008 he was Chief Counsel for Legislation and Counsel to General Assembly for that office. He was appointed judge in February 2008.

School Board

Amber Waller, 54, is unopposed for an at-large seat on the Board of Education. She was appointed to this post by County Executive Jack Johnson to fill a vacancy. That appointment was good only until this election and, if elected, her new term on the board will end in 2011, the same as other board members.

Waller was a board candidate for the District 2 seat in 2006 but was defeated by Heather Iliff. She is the executive director of Black Mayors, Inc. and has served as an elected member of the Democratic Central Committee. She is a 12-year county resident with a son and a step-daughter.

Waller has played an active role in civic and community activities, serving as civic association president representing over 1,200 households, was a founding member of Washington Gas Watch which successfully protested the building of a liquefied natural gas facility in Chillum and a member of the Multi-Cultural Alliance of Prince George's County, Stepping Up Crime Watch and various other county and community organizations. She has also served as president and in other roles with the county Parent Teacher Association, as a board member with the Boys and Girls Clubs and as a member of the Committee of 100. Waller received an award for Prince George's County Public Schools Outstanding Volunteer and received several awards while serving as the vice president of the D.C. Chapter of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

the absentee ballot forms which are counted only when machine voting tallies do not produce a clear majority on a candidate or referendum.

County Questions

The ballot also includes five proposed county bond issues totaling $361,860,000 for renovation and repair of county buildings, libraries, roads and public facilities. (Questions A to E)

A voter may vote "yes" for some questions and "no" for others. When the voters reject a question, the county has no authority to act on such things as changing the timing of the legislative notice or the specified tax rate or to raise money for projects specified in the questions.

Charter amendment, Question F: Telecommunications and Service Sales and Use Tax, proposes to raise the present 8 percent tax on gross receipts from phone/cell phone services to 11 percent. These funds may be used only for Prince George's public schools, administered by the school board and must have been included in the proposed next budget.

The 3 percent increase in the existing rate proposes to include funds to consolidate and move the school system's central offices from deteriorating buildings, in addition to other school expenses.

The other Charter amendment, Question G: Extension of Time of Public Hearing on a Bill, seeks to change the required official notice of new legislation to 10 days instead of the present language of five days. If this amendment passes, it will clarify the scheduling and notice periods for legislation.

Bond Issues

Referenda on all bond issues are required to be approved by Prince George's County voters in a general election which occurs every two years. Council first legislatively approves the proposal by a Council Bill. Often the development of projects is incremental, depending on the availability of contractors and the sequence of work, so these costs are combined, in part or totally, for the best advantage in marketing the bond.

County bonds are usually $100,000,000 so that parts of several projects can be funded. Details of each project, such as the location, acquisition and specific construction, are published in the Capital Improvement Proposal Fiscal Year 2009-2014, the CIP, a document available in county libraries as well as government agencies.

If any question receives a majority of negative votes, the bond will have been denied and no portion of the plan can be funded with new bond money.

If the voters approve Question A, the county is authorized to incur additional debt in the amount of $9,155,000 to rehabilitate or repair library facilities and portions of other unspecified library projects. Renovations to be funded by these bonds include the Surratts-Clinton library.

Public Safety

Question B authorizes the county to fund renovations of public safety facilities with bonds in the amount of $38,134,000. The projects or portions of projects include Corrections Center kitchen replacement and various police and Fire/EMS station renovations in Chillum, Konterra, Oxon Hill and South County.

County Buildings

The renovation of various county buildings is estimated to cost $112,596,000 as planned in Question C. Projects or portions of projects to be funded by these bonds include Public Safety Radio System, Prince George's Homeless Shelter, Courthouse Security Project and the Regional Health and Human Services Center. The designation of "other county building renovations" permits the government to address other design, construction, reconstruction, extension, acquisition, improvement, enlargement, alteration, renovation, relocation, rehabilitation or repair of projects as needed.

Approval of Question D, the Public Works and Transportation Facilities Bonds, would authorize the county to incur additional debt in the amount of $153,244,000 for repair of roads and bridges, parking lots and maintenance facilities.

Projects or portions of projects to be funded by these bonds for such capital projects are of the same generic class and described in the capital program for FYs 2009-2014. The 18 projects include various road and bridge repair and replacement projects such as curb and road rehabilitation, street lights and traffic congestion improvements.

Community College

Community College Facilities Bonds, seeks to authorize additional debt in the amount of $48,731,000 for projects at Prince George's Community College. If the voters approve Question E, the county will obtain bonds to fund projects or portions of projects to include MSR-fire alarm system upgrades and the Queen Anne Fine Arts building, Marlboro Hall and various improvements.

As with all bond proposals, the borrowings authorized in these referendum questions will occur over several years as programmed in the FY 2009-2014 Capital Improvement Program.

GHI Celebrates with New History Plaque

by Mary Moien

Greenbelt Homes, Inc. (GHI) has now made the list of famous sites within the city. At its annual picnic on October 5, Greenbelt Mayor Judith Davis and other councilmembers and GHI board and staff dedicated a wayside panel on Hamilton Place near the front of the GHI administration building. This new plaque joins others mainly located in the area of Crescent and Southway describing the shopping center, the original community building and other important areas.

The new GHI plaque describes in detail the transition of the original homes from federally owned to cooperative ownership following World War II. The plaque even incorporates 1953 newspaper ads listing homes for sale in the $5,500 to $9,500 range. One ad showed a drawing of a young woman and man sitting under a sun umbrella at the city pool.

All GHI members had been invited to the catered picnic and a couple hundred filled the picnic tables on the grass in the warm sun. Staff and city officials mingled in casual conversations.

Among the chatter overheard, Davis indicated that she is almost a GHI member as she has so many friends in the co-op; and Councilmember Rodney Roberts commented that he was being married the following weekend.

ACE Committee to Meet With Local PTA Presidents

by Mary Moien

The Advisory Committee on Education (ACE) will hold its annual meeting with Greenbelt area PTA presidents on Tuesday, October 28 at 6:30 p.m. in the City Council chambers at the Municipal Building. PTA presidents, board members and school Parent liaisons are encouraged to attend. This meeting is a chance for school PTAs to bring concerns and accomplishments to the attention of ACE. PTA members also get to hear about PTA activities going on at neighboring schools.

One potential general topic for the meeting is ACE's interest in pursuing the creation of a vehicle to facilitate a smoother transition into middle school for upcoming sixth graders and their parents. One positive side effect might be an even more viable PTA at the Greenbelt Middle School level.

The public is invited to participate in all ACE meetings. During its September meeting, ACE members reviewed a number of topics. The ACE Reading Club and an update of the status of a new Greenbelt Middle School have been highlighted in recent Greenbelt News Review articles.

The school project is still awaiting final approval from the State of Maryland. The committee also recapped its participation in the Greenbelt Labor Day Festival; committee members and eight ACE student winners marched in the parade.

There was discussion of a joint meeting for area education committees including Berwyn Heights and College Park. It was also agreed that ACE might want to host a meeting for the education committees that will be feeder schools into Greenbelt Middle School. These schools include Greenbelt, Magnolia, Springhill Lake, Berwyn Heights, Hollywood and Paint Branch elementary schools.

Topics for discussion could include issues of advocacy as well as monitoring of school construction.

at GMS has been well received by the parents, students and faculty at the school.

Staff Introductions

City Manager Michael McLaughlin introduced four new staff members hired during the past few months to fill key positions on the city staff. Sharon Vanzego has joined the Greenbelt CARES staff and assumed the Green Ridge House service coordinator position. Vanzego has a BA in public health and family services from the University of Maryland, had previously been a volunteer with CARES and had worked with a nonprofit mental health organization in Washington, D.C.

Megan Searing Young has filled the vacant position of curator at the Greenbelt Museum. She had joined the museum staff in 2007 as the National Endowment for Humanities (NEH) Challenge Grant Education and Volunteer Coordinator. Young is a museum professional and decorative arts historian with 12 years experience. She received a BA in arts history and women's studies from Johns Hopkins University and an MA in the history of decorative arts from the Cooper-Hewitt, National Design Museum, Smithsonian Institution and Parsons School of Design.

Jeffrey Thames has been on the job for a few months and assumed the recently authorized position of Capital Projects Manager for the Department of Planning and Community Development. Thames received a BS in electrical engineering from Temple University and an MS in international business from Johns Hopkins University.

Local Greenbelt resident Luisa Robles has been hired to fill the position of recycling coordinator, replacing Cindy Murray who left that position to take on the city clerk position. Robles is an elected member of the Greenbelt Homes, Inc. board of directors and has served on the GHI Woodlands Committee and on the city's Forest Preserve Advisory Board. She worked previously at the Clean Air Institute and earned a bachelor's degree in general biology from the National University of Mexico and has a Ph.D. in environmental sciences.

Responding to a request from Mayor Judith Davis, Robles provided the latest information on the planned Lake Park Clean-up, the Shred-It event in cooperation with the Greenbelt Federal Credit Union, Fall Fest at Schrom Hills Park and the October 25 electronic recycling event at Public Works. She noted that, for the first time, used TVs (up to 32-inch screens) would be included in the recycling program.

Co-op Proclamation

In honor of October as Cooperative Month, council gave recognition to six of the active cooperative organizations in the city. Representatives of the Greenbelt Consumer Cooperative, Inc. grocery store, the Greenbelt Federal Credit Union, Greenbelt Homes, Inc., the Greenbelt Nursery School, the New Deal Café and the Greenbelt News Review were on hand to receive their proclamations.

CTP 5-year Plan

The item on the business part of the agenda that garnered most discussion was a report by the city Planning and Community Development staff on the draft Maryland Department of Transportation Consolidated Transportation Program (CTP). As in previous years, a number of projects listed as priorities in the draft CTP for FY09-14 are of interest to the city.

The most important items remain the Intercounty Connector (ICC), the Md. 201 extension to Laurel (possibly connecting to the ICC), the full interchange for the Beltway (I-495) at the Greenbelt Metro Station, Route 1 improvements, the University of Maryland Connector Road (from I-95 south to the College Park campus) and the Purple Line public transportation link between the New Carrollton and Bethesda Metro stations.

Due to current economic challenges facing the federal and state governments from the financial and credit crisis, soaring energy prices, reduced revenues and a reduction in the Transportation Trust Fund, there are noticeable changes in this year's draft CTP. The project to construct full interchange access to the proposed Greenbelt Station project has been removed, as well as the $7.3 million in engineering funds allocated to the first phase of the long awaited improvements to Route 1 in College Park. Funding levels for local bus programs have also been impacted.

Draft CTP

A meeting hosted by the Maryland Department of Transportation and the State Highway Administration is scheduled for November 12 at the Regional State Highway office in Greenbelt as part of the annual "road show" conducted to elicit comments on the draft CTP. City staff recommended that council communicate the city's positions on the projects affecting Greenbelt and Northern Prince George's County, specifically the continued opposition to the ICC, concerns regarding the proposed UMD Connector road, continued support for the Purple Line and the Route 1 improvements and maintaining the dedicated state funding for improving local transit.

Additionally staff recommended that council restate its request that the funding allocated to the ICC, Md. 201 extension and the UMD Connector projects be redirected to more essential projects such as the Route 1 improvements and transitrelated projects.

That message had already been communicated to John Porcari, Maryland Secretary of Transportation in a letter from Davis on October 10, 2008, where the city added its voice to those urgently calling for a halt to funding for the ICC due to its enormous cost overruns, the critical economic downturn and the project's devastating impact on other transportation projects.

In the October 10 letter to Porcari, Davis had raised strong objection: "Rather than reducing or delaying the funding for the ICC, the decision (by MDOT) was made to cut or transfer a number of other projects that would have positive impacts on the transportation situation. Primary among these are the long overdue improvements to Route 1 in College Park, proceeding on the Purple Line, improvements to the Branch Avenue Metro station and construction of interchange ramps at the Greenbelt Metro station that would serve a Smart Growth transit-oriented development. Further funding was untouched for two projects which could have severe environmental impacts: a proposed connector road from the Beltway to the University of Maryland and the extension/expansion of Kenilworth Avenue (Md. 201). These are projects for which funding should have been cut."

With only minor amendments, council authorized that a similar letter be communicated at the November 12 MDOT meeting in Greenbelt.

In other business actions council expressed support for the proposed Council of Governments (COG) National Capital Region Climate Change Report to achieve a 10 percent reduction below 2005 levels of greenhouse gases by 2012, 20 percent lower by 2020 and 80 percent lower by 2050. If approved by COG, the reduction goals would be incorporated into the city's energy conservation plan slated for development this fiscal year.

On behalf of the Maryland Humanities Council, council supported a request for Community Investment Tax Credit funds for its project to expand Maryland History Day participation in Prince George's County schools.

Council also approved a staff recommendation that the city apply for a grant from the Maryland Energy Administration in the amount of $24,400 to support the city's purchase of two hybrid

Prayer of the Blessed Virgin

Oh, most Beautiful Flower of Mt. Carmel, Fruitful Divine Splendor of Heaven, Blessed Mother of the Son of God, Immaculate Virgin, assist me in my necessities. Oh, Star of the Sea, help me and show me here You are my Mother. Oh Holy Mary, Mother of God, Queen of heaven and earth, I humbly beseech You from the bottom of my heart to succor me in my necessities (make request). There are none that can withstand your power. Oh, Mary, conceived without sin, pray with us who have recourse to Thee (say three times). Recite this prayer for three consecutive days. Publish it and your request will be granted to you.
